DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a method for creating an augmented Mealy machine, classified in class 716, subclass 18.
  - II. Claims 9-12, drawn to a method of converting a Blum-Shub-Smale machine, classified in class 716, subclass 3.
  - III. Claims 13-17, drawn to a method of transforming a BBS machine to a multivariate polynomial mapping, classified in class 713, subclass 3.
  - IV. Claims 18-23, 33, 54 drawn to a method of specifying a pattern of encryption of multivariate mappings, classified in class 380, subclass 28.
  - V. Claims 26-29, 40-42, 59, drawn to a method of generating re-encryption keys, classified in class 380, subclass 44.
  - VI. Claims 24-25, 34-39, drawn to a method of encrypting plural variables and mapping components of multivariate mappings, classified in class 380, subclass 28.
  - VII. Claims 30-32, 43-44, 52-53, drawn to a method of converting a mapping into a function, classified in class 708, subclass 492.
  - VIII. Claims 45-46, drawn to a Turing platform, classified in class 712, subclass 201.
  - IX. Claims 47-51, drawn to a register machine, classified in class 712, subclass 2.

- X. Claims 55-58, 61-67, drawn to a method of generating keys for parametrized multivariate encryption of multivariate mappings, classified in class 380, subclass 44.
- XI. Claim 60, drawn to a method of specifying an encryption pattern for parametrized encryption of a register machine, classified in class 380, subclass 28.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-XI are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as a synthesizer for logic circuits. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as a logic circuit converter. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility of creating mappings from logic circuits. In the instant case, invention IV has separate utility such as an encryptor. In the instant case, invention V has separate utility such as a cryptographic key generator. In the instant case, invention VI has separate utility such as an encryptor. In the instant case, invention VII has separate utility such as a mapping converter. In the instant case, invention VIII has separate utility such as a data flow based system. In the instant case, invention IX has separate utility such as a vector processor. In the instant case, invention X has separate utility such as a key generator. In the instant case, invention XI has separate utility such as a method for encryption. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. A telephone call was made to Michael Casey on 5 August 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

5. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Benjamin E Lanier whose telephone number is 703-305-7684. The examiner can normally be reached on M-Th 7:30am-5:00pm, F 7:30am-4pm.
